It's Been a Funny Old Day!

As we have always tried to do despite the adverse weather conditions, school opened today. The majority of children also made it in, which was great. The afternoon became a bit of a washout however, as a constant trickle of children got picked up before continued snow made journeys home too hazardous. Thank you to those people who took heed of posts on Class Dojo and helped others to understand the school's situation.

Class R Request

Class R have been growing herbs in their outside area and our school kitchen would like to be able to use some herbs grown in school to add to our menus. With this in mind we would be grateful for any of the following which you may have grown into small plants which we could add to the herb garden. Basil, parsley, thyme. Many thanks.

Science Week

It is British Science week next week! This year's theme is 'connections'! To celebrate this we are going to explore the connections between Science, Technology, Engineering and Maths by carrying out lots of STEM challenges in class. To further the 'connections' theme we would like to invite some parents in to school to take on some of these STEM challenges with your children, who will win, parents or children?! Please look out for an invitation from your child's class teacher.

Book Fair

Next week marks the return of our ever-popular Book Fair! It will be available after school Wednesday 15th March - Tuesday 21st March near the main entrance (please collect your child first then bring them round). There is always a really good selection of books/stationery and the prices are very reasonable - you can browse the range here: www.bookfairs.scholastic.co.uk/travelling-books/the-books. The book fair helps us keep our books for the children to use in each class up to date - every purchase earns the school rewards which we can spend on free books to stock our library and classrooms, so it does make a real difference to us. Children will be given a World Book Day £1 token which they can use against the cost of a book. Payments can be made in cash or by paying online at bookfairs.scholastic.co.uk/travelling-books/pay. Thank you for supporting the school with this.

Visitors Next Week

On Monday next week we are expecting some visitors in school. William P's Mum in Class 3 has kindly offered to bring in her sheep and 2 lambs to see 3 Corners and some of our younger children who I am sure will be thrilled to see them.

Events for the week commencing 13th March 2023:

Wednesday: Book Fair arrives

Friday: Mother's Day Shop – Get your slips and payments in early next week please.
