NSPCC Number Day

School has been about all things numerical today. In support of the NSPCC's Number Day, children have come dressed on the theme and lots of interesting activities have been planned in class.

Some of the outfits were brilliant (see photos for examples) and the children have had a great time exploring digits and numbers.

Ofsted Inspection – A BIG Thank You Everyone

As I am sure you are all aware, we were visited by two Ofsted Inspectors on Tuesday and Wednesday this week. It was an intense couple of days where we tried to demonstrate a fair picture of our school.

I am not allowed to make their provisional decisions public, but I would like to thank everyone who played a part in the inspection for their contributions. I believe many parents gave feedback to the inspectors, either out in the playground or by using the online questionnaire. Several Governors put their busy lives on hold so that they could meet inspectors and our staff worked tirelessly to feel as prepared as possible.

My final thanks go to our brilliant children. They set a great example of themselves in class and around school and I am sure the inspectors could not fail to be impressed with them all. Once we receive the report (which will be in a few weeks) I will of course make it available for you all to read.

Living Eggs

Class 2 will be having some visitors on the first week back after half term. Living Eggs are bringing us some chicks so we can watch them hatch during the week as part of our Science project. If anyone would like to rehome them afterwards, please email the school office. Thank you.

PTFA Disco

As mentioned above, a surprise Ofsted Inspection meant that some things planned for earlier this week got put on hold. One of them was the distribution of the letters about the PTFA disco. These should come out today. Please send the reply slips back to school early next week.

Class 3 Visit Beacon Hill and Wainhouse Tower

This week Class 3 got out and about, visiting a couple of local tourist attractions. They took the minibuses to have a walk around Beacon Hill, just above Shibden Hall, before having a short stop at Wainhouse Tower.

As I said to the children, we are so blessed to live in such a beautiful part of the country, with so many interesting things around us.

Has Anyone Got a Heart?

Thank you to everyone who has sent their completed hearts back to school with your idea of what love is. We have a few remaining days to fill our board in case you haven't returned yours yet, ready for the 'Love' Exhibition of Art and Poetry next week.

The week begins with a bang as we will be visited by renowned local artist Kate Lycett. She will be talking to the children about being an artist as well as helping to initiate an art task with the school. The task is based on creating lanterns, which is one of the things Kate produces of the local area and places that are close to her heart, such as the Yorkshire coastline.

I am sure that Kate's visit will prove inspirational to lots of our children. Kate will bring a few of the lanterns that she produces which can be bought for £15 (please send cash in a clearly marked envelope if you would like your child to choose one). They are also sold in some independent shops in the area, such as Trinkette in Sowerby Bridge. Why not pop in, back a small local business and grab yourselves a product that supports a local artist.
